MASTER OF INTERNATIONAL TRADE

Explore global trade dynamics
with our Master of International Trade.

Discover how trade connects the world and affects states, businesses, and Indigenous populations, including Māori perspectives.

Study across law, economics, international relations, and more. Learn from top lecturers and engage with contemporary issues such as digital trade and climate change.

How you'll study

In this programme, you'll engage in lectures, seminars, and class discussions. These will be complemented by meetings with course instructors and the programme director. Your learning will also involve independent study and research.

Assessments include tests, exams, essays, and reports, ensuring a well-rounded evaluation of your knowledge and skills.

Duration

The Master of International Trade is a 180-point Master's degree and can be completed in three trimesters of full-time study or up to three years of part-time study.

Intake: Trimester 1 (February) each year.

Admission requirements

A Bachelor's degree with at least a B average and acceptance by the programme director as being capable of proceeding with the proposed course of study.

If you want to enrol in this programme but don't meet some of the entry requirements, contact us to discuss your options.
